GAMMA IOTA SIGMA WINS COMPETITION

The La Salle chapter of GIS has won a competition sponsored by State Farms Insurance for the development of the most innovative program utilizing its video, "Be a Good Neighbor- Be a Designated Driver". This video- which addresses the issue of driving while intoxicated- was the focus of a special presentation in two La Salle risk management classes. Professor Kathleen McNichol worked with the Alcohol & Other Drug program to develop a discussion which considered the risk management potential of the State Farm's video.

This quote- taken from an essay written by Anna Flisak, a student in Professor McNichol's FIN 314 class- summarizes student response to the program, "Identification is the most critical and difficult element of risk management. The program (Be a Good Neighbor) clearly portrayed drinking and driving as a pure risk... the program's outstanding asset is the approach that it utilizes to achieve its intended purpose. The issue is removed from a judgmental, moral context...".

GIS has chosen to share its $500 prize with the University Peers- La Salle's student alcohol & other drug peer educators. To review this video or adapt its use to your class, contact the AOD Program in the Counseling Center.

ALCOHOL/OTHER DRUGS ON CAMPUSES

Southern Illinois University's Student Health Program Wellness Center has published the results of a random survey of students from 2 and 4 year colleges and universities- some of the results are quite interesting. Students attending 2 year schools reported drinking less frequently than their 4 year counterparts- students at 2 year schools tend to drink twice a month or less, whereas students at 4 year institutions tend to drink more than twice per month.

The survey reported that the smaller the enrollment at a 4 year institutions, the larger the mean number of drinks per capita consumed per week. This suggests the size of the school does make a difference in the amount of drinking done by its students. For more information on these data, contact the AOD Program.

ALCOHOL ADVISORY BOARD CREATED

Faculty & staff are invited to participate in the Alcohol Advisory Board (AAB), a self appointed organization working with students in addressing their needs pertaining to the University's alcohol & other drug policy. The AAB will meet 3 times per semester. Current agenda items focus on a student survey of alcohol related behavior, with results used to enhance campus programming.

Additionally, the board will consider ways to provide safe transportation to students who socialize off campus.

The initial meeting of the board will be at 12:30 PM on Thursday Nov. 5th in room 217 Union. For more information or to become part of this board, please call Ed Ryan at 991-2585.

Agenda

UNIVERSITY PEERS ON THE ROAD

The University Peers presented a workshop entitled, Getting Drunk is Never Safe at Harcum Junior College on Oct. 13th. This same workshop will be presented on the campus of Philadelphia College of Textile & Science later in October.

In addition, La Salle's peer educators will participate in the annual Amethyst Network peer conference on the 7th of Nov. This years conference is hosted by St. Joe's and will be attended by representatives from 10 Phila. area college and university peer programs.

HEAVY DRINKING EQUALS LOW MARKS

A Dept. Of Ed. funded survey of 56,361 students at 78 colleges reports that college students who drink the most alcohol earn the lowest grades. Students with a grade point average of 'D' or 'F' consumed on the average of 11 drinks per week. Those with average GPAs of 'A' consumed on the average of 3 drinks per week.

The same survey found that male students are more likely to binge-consume 5 or more drinks in one setting- than females, with 27% having binged 3 or more times in the 2 wks. prior to the survey vs. 13% of the females during the same period.

Alcohol was the drug of choice on college campuses with 86% of students reporting use in the past year and 45% indicating they drank weekly or more often. This compares to 11.4% of students who reported marijuana use monthly or more frequently; 6% of responding student indicated they used cocaine at least once in the year prior to the survey.

ALCOHOL CAUSES BODY FAT TO ACCUMULATE

A recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine reported that alcohol decreased the process of lipid oxidation- the natural process of turning body fat into energy. For more information, see Suter, Schutz, & Jegquier; 1992. The effects of ethanol on fat storage in healthy subjects. NEJM; 326:983-7.

NEW FEATURE IN BOOZE NEWS

Beginning with the November issue of Booze News, reader questions regarding alcohol will be addressed. If you have a question about alcohol, its consumption, or the impact it may have on higher education, send it to, "Booze News" c/o The Counseling Center, Campus. Anonymous questions are welcomed and will appear in the next edition. When possible, suggestions for additional information on the suggested topic will be included.

Questions
& Answers

NON-ALCOHOLIC BEERS

Many who enjoy the taste of beer but do not wish to consume all the alcohol have found non-alcoholic beer a pleasant alternative. While non-alcoholic beer generally contains .5% or less alcohol, this is not enough to cause intoxication. Whether drinking one's non-alcoholic favorite exclusively during an outing or alternating it with a regular brand, the net result is a lower level of alcohol in the blood.

With numerous brands of non-alcoholic beer readily available in the Delaware Valley, a little experimenting should result in discovering a beer that meets one's requirements for a good brew. Why not start by trying one of the non-alcoholic beers sold on campus in Backstage?

Important

While this may be a reasonable alternative for social drinkers, those with a drinking problem are advised to avoid all beer as even non-alcoholic beer can legally contain up to 1% alcohol by volume. Likewise, because they taste like 'regular' beer and are often consumed in a traditional tavern atmosphere, the environmental cues may be such that the problem drinker may be tempted to return to active drinking.

"A Holistic Approach to Watershed Protection"

The Environmental Protection Agency typically views environmental dilemmas by separating the component parts and having experts investigate each of these subunits. Is this the best way to proceed? Could the air pollution, water pollution, public health, economic and safety aspects of an environmental proposal all be examined interactively and simultaneously? Senator Al Gore has suggested this holistic method to solving environmental dilemmas. Mr. Pepino's presentation will explore some of the strengths and shortcomings of this approach.
